NURSE SKEELS WEEPS AT STORY OF PATIENT'S DEATH

PROTEST IS FILED BY BRADY

Detroit Professional Barely Wins Playoff by Score of 77 to 78

SCORES OF GOLFERS FOR FIRST NINE HOLES

Hagen..	5	4	4	6	5	5	4	4	4—42
Brady..	4	6	4	5	5	4	4	4	5—41

Brae-Burn, June 12.—Walter Hagen, Detroit professional, won the national open golf championship by defeating Mike Brady of Oakley in the playoff today by one stroke. Hagen's score was 77, while that of the local professional was 78.

Brady protested Hagen's victory immediately after the match. It is claimed that Hagen picked up a cigarette stub which was in front of the twelfth hole and by so doing made it easier to execute the shot.

At the end of the tenth hole it looked as though Hagen would score an easy triumph. At that point he was leading by four strokes. In the late stages of the contest Brady rallied and all but came through with a victory.

LARGE GALLERIES SEE PLAY.

One of the largest galleries that has ever followed a golf tournament were out early to witness the playoff.

Both contestants were out early and had a long practice on different shots. The early betting favored Hagen by 10 to 7.

Both contestants got away at 10:18. They both made good drives. Brady won the hole, four to five for Hagen. The second hole was taken by Hagen with a four, while it took Mike Brady six to hole the cup.

The third hole Brady was short of the tee, but made a good midiron to

PART OF TURKISH PEACE DELEGATION IN PARIS

Paris, June 12.—Part of the Turkish peace delegation arrived in France today. The other members will arrive later. Work of formulating that section of the treaty which the Turks must sign is not yet under way although the general principles are understood by the envoys.

GERMANS MUST SIGN, SAYS BERLIN PAPER

Berlin, June 12.—Germany must sign the treaty of peace or face a war of defense on both the western and eastern frontiers shortly, says the Vossische Zeitung. The newspaper points out that there is a decided lack of coal and that all of the cities are without food. Furthermore, the allies would occupy Hanover and the other coast provinces, where separate republics would likely be proclaimed.

New Yorkers Pawn Sunday Trousers On Monday

By International News Service.

New York, June 12.—Many a New Yorker pawns his best Sunday trousers on Monday and reclaims them Saturday night after receiving his weekly pay envelope.

This and other deep mysteries of the pawnbrokers' game were revealed by the pawnbrokers themselves today when they replied to the demands of their clerks, who want an eight-hour day.

The pawnbrokers agreed to grant an eight-hour day every day but Saturday, when they insist that the clerks shall work late, passing reclaimed trousers over the counter.

TROOPSHIP RAMMED OFF N. Y.

Lives of 560 on Graf Waldersee Imperiled; Four Ships in Collisions; One Sunk

By International News Service.

New York, June 12.—The lives of 500 persons were endangered when the former Hamburg-American liner Graf Waldersee, now a troop transport, was rammed by the steamship Redondo in a dense fog 100 miles off the coast early today.

The transports Patricia and Leviathan, bound for New York with troops, rushed to the side of the sinking Waldersee in response to her wireless messages of distress. A wireless dispatch a few hours after the collision reported that all the passengers and crew of the big transport had been taken off by the Patricia.

The Patricia attempted to tow the Graf Waldersee to port. Later four tugs went out to meet the big transport and towed her to Long Beach, L. I.

The Redondo, operated by the United States Shipping Board, made this port without assistance shortly after 7 o'clock.

The nigger of the Redondo said he believed a number of those on board the Redondo were injured in the crash. The Redondo's bows were stove in and her forepeak was three-fourths full of water when she arrived.

In another collision in the fog, the freighter Yankee, operated by the shipping board, was so badly damaged off Fire Island that she sank at 2:15 a. m. The Italian steamship Argentina, which collided with the Yankee, took off the sinking steamer's crew. There was no loss of life and no injuries were reported.

The Leviathan, bringing 11,490 troops from France, docked here today.

The Graf Waldersee left New York last night for Brest. Among her passengers were nine army officers, returning to France after leave in the United States. The Redondo was inbound from Cette, France.

The nine army officers aboard the Graf Waldersee were:

Colonel Frank G. Madigan, Coast Artillery; Lieutenant-Colonel Robert O. Edwards, Coast Artillery; Major Joseph C. Haw, Coast Artillery; Major James Longstreet, Cavalry; Captain Guy R. Doane, Quartermaster's Corps; First Lieutenant Thomas H. Steele, Infantry; Second Lieutenants Charles R. Gilliart, John H. Lewis and Hugh A. Palmer, all of the Field Artillery.

The Graf Waldersee is a 12,000 ton vessel. She was launched in Hamburg in 1898. She is 551 feet long, 57 feet wide and 37 feet in depth.

KNOX WINS ON LEAGUE RESOLVE

Foreign Relations Committee Votes, 9 to 8, to Report Measure Favorably

By International News Service.

Washington, June 12.—By a vote of nine to eight the Knox League of Nations resolution was favorably reported to the Senate today by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at the end of a protracted session behind closed doors, which was said to have developed into a bitter wrangle between pro-league and anti-league Senators of the committee.

Reservation of the right of Congress to determine and interpret the provisions of article 10 of the League of Nations, insofar as it affects the United States and the Monroe of the Western Hemisphere, is principal in a resolution introduced in the Senate this afternoon by Senator sterling of South Dakota.

The resolution was referred to the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate.

PURCHASE OF CAPE COD CANAL OPPOSED

Washington, June 12.—A bill proposing an appropriation of $10,000,000 for the purchase of the Cape Cod Canal by the government met with opposition in the Senate Commerce committee today. While the bill was recommended by Secretary of War Baker, Senator Kirby of Arkansas charged that it was an attempt "to unload a canal on the government," and declared that he would vote against reporting the bill out. The bill was referred to a sub-committee for further investigation.

MRS. GLADDING ADMITS WRONGDOING; FINED $100

Providence, R. I., June 12.—Admitting having lived together in a Cranston street lodging house in Providence, Mrs. Theodore G. Gladding, wife of a wealthy Bristol oyster farmer, and Richard F. Williams of Providence, were each fined $100 and costs by Judge Gorham in the district court today. Mrs. Gladding is thirty-four and her husband is exactly thirty years older. About two years ago Mrs. Gladding broke up her home and went to live with Williams.

NO SESSION IN HOUSE ON BUNKER HILL DAY

By an almost unanimous vote the House today adopted an order for the observance of Bunker Hill Day, Tuesday, June 17, by holding no session. The order was introduced by Representative William Kneeland of Winchester. Similar action is expected in the Senate. A Monday session was ordered in the House, however, for the reception of reports.

Giant Airships May Race Across the Atlantic

By International News Service.

St. John's, N. F., June 12.—The Vickers-Vimy bombing machine and the Handley-Page airplane may engage in desperate race over the trans-Atlantic flight course.

It was stated today that it was unlikely that either machine would start the morning but that both might "hop off" tomorrow afternoon or Saturday.

The steamship Graciana arrived today with a new motor for F. P. Raynham's Martinsyde machine, which was smashed on the same day that Harry G. Hawker set off to fly to England. Raynham hopes to be able to make a trial flight within a week.

GIRL DROPS 25 FEET TO ARMS OF OFFICERS

Miss Jessie Murray and Her Father, Locked in Friend St. Bldg., Rescued by Police

Into the waiting arms of two police officers, Miss Jessie Murray of Tolar street, Roslindale, dropped twenty-five feet after she and her father had been locked within a building in Friend street. Four officers attached to the Hanover street police station effected their rescue when it was found impossible to secure keys with which to release them.

Miss Murray and her father, James A. Yeomans, street sprinkler, were working on some plans which were needed this morning. In going to the top floor of the building in which they were at work they found it locked. Being without keys, Mr. Murray was forced to remain and in that way attracted the attention of a policeman. Members of the Hanover station force were called.

Patrolmen Shea, Kerwin and Kirkland, who advised the couple to go to the offices they had been working in and thence down the fire escape. Patrolman Shea, a former fireman as well as reporter, climbed to the escape and was followed by Anderson. A ladder could not be secured, and the only expedient was for the couple to slide into the waiting arms of Donovan and Kerwin. This was done without injury to either.

BODY OF ALLEGED VICTIM EXHUMED

Lawrence, June 12.—Mrs. Bessie May (Skeels) Lundgren, the "Sunshine Nurse," broke down in court today and wept while Mrs. Edith M. Luce told of the dying moments of Miss Florence W. Gay, the Andover teacher of whose murder Mrs. Lundgren is accused.

Mrs. Lundgren lost the serenity that so far has characterized her attitude at the murder trial. As Mrs. Luce, reported to have been the instigator of the proceedings which led to Mrs. Lundgren's arrest, described the intimate details of Miss Gay's death, Mrs. Skeels could bear up no longer.

With her black bordered handkerchief she repeatedly dried the tears that coursed down her cheeks.

The testimony of Mrs. Luce concerning articles the prosecution seeks to secure were obtained from Miss Gay by Mrs. Lundgren while she was acting as her nurse and the exhumation of Miss Gay's body were the features of the trial today.

MISS GAY'S BODY EXHUMED.

Miss Gay's body was exhumed today so that the defense experts might examine it. But exhumation revealed that the vital organs had been removed and are now in the possession of Professor Whitney of Harvard. They are to be turned over to the defense experts by the attorneys for the Commonwealth.

With a sudden access of strength and a tinge of color relieving the ghastly pallor of her face, Mrs. Lundgren faced her ordeal again today. In her hand she carried two open packages, which, as lifted from her lap, emitted their fragrance to her face, inhaling their fragrance.

Just before court came in, Mrs. Lundgren saw Mrs. Emerson, in whose house she was living in Andover at the time of her arrest.

"Oh, I want to speak to grandma," she said, and Mrs. Emerson crossed the room to the side of the trial defendant, whom she kissed and greeted with warmth.

When the trial began, three young

'BOMB' FOUND IN CAMBRIDGE FACTORY

Cambridge was rushed today by the discovery of a suspicious appearing package resembling a bomb in a cigar factory on Harding street. The bomb, which caused the scare, was guarded by police pending the arrival of Bomb Expert Chemist Walter Widger to open it.

The package was found on a shelf on the second floor of the cigar store at No. 32 Harding street, which is conducted by Andrew Romagno and Nicola Marino. The men say they have no enemies so far as they know, and have received no threatening letters, but that at once arrived at the conclusion that the package was a bomb, and reported it.

The package when found was in a cardboard box and had evidently been left, and marked or addressed. It is almost seven inches long and one and one-half inches thick.

ABBOTT ACADEMY GIRLS WITNESSES AT MRS. LUNDGREN'S TRIAL

PRISONER BREAKS DOWN AT STORY OF MISS GAY'S DEATH

pupils of Abbott Academy were seated in charge of a faculty member, at one side of the courtroom. They are the girls who will identify articles as those that were in their rooms in the Gay homestead, and that were later found in Mrs. Skeels' apartment. Their fresh color and unspoiled youth made them appear singularly out of place in the sordid atmosphere of a murder trial.

Mrs. Luce described in detail, in response to the questions of Attorney-General Attwill, her plans for taking Miss Gay to a sanitarium. She gave detailed description, too, of a fur lined cape that was in the Gay family and identified an ivory shroud and comb tray and pieces of carpet that she said she saw in the police station and that she had formerly seen in Mrs. Gay's room.

Articles of underwear and towels, the witness failed to identify.

A towel bearing the initials "G. L." was passed the witness for identification. "Do you know what 'it L' is?" asked the examining lawyer.

"Grace Leyser," was the reply. And at the request of the attorney-general, Miss Leyser, an Abbott Academy girl, stood and was recognized by the witness.

Cross examination by Attorney Daniel J. Lacey, counsel for the defence, began with the examination of a carpet, which had already been identified.

WAS LUNGREN'S TEACHER.

Q.—When were you married, Luce? A.—In June, 1902. I married in Andover, where I was formerly a teacher.

Q.—And Mr. Lundgren was one of yours? A.—He was.

Q.—Then you were wrong on one point you did not know Mr. Lundgren.

Exception was taken by the district-attorney and the witness to that she had known Mr. Lundgren since his boyhood.

Mr. Daley made a second and tried to put a motion before the court to have all reference to jewelry stricken from the court records.

The attorney-general assured the court that there was further evidence relating to the jewelry, and the motion was lost.

Witness was questioned as to conditions with the Gay family as to whether or not she knew that Miss Gay's separated shortly after the birth of Florence.

It should not call it a separation, witness said.

Q.—After Mr. Gay was city editor at Lynn and Mrs. Gay lived on Florence in Andover? A.—Yes, that is so, but Mr. Gay was a frequent visitor in the Gay household.

Q.—Was there any time did you see Mr. Gay in the Gay household? I don't recall. I have seen him sometimes, sometimes taking tea with Mrs. Gay.

Q.—How old was Miss Gay? In the early forty-four? A.—Yes, that.

Witness said that Miss Gay has had a slight reddish color about nose and mouth, her hands clean and white and she was compelled to wear gloves when working about the bar in the Winter.

DIDN'T SIGN PETITION.

Q.—Were you a petitioner in losing an administrator appointed in Miss Gay's estate? A.—I was no. I did not sign such a petition.

Q.—You were so busy? A.—I was not. Her father and mother were heirs.

Q.—Where was Mr. Gay when on sought to have yourself appointed servator of the estate of Mrs. Rosmond Gay? A.—He was in the hospital, in immediate danger of death.

Q.—You were appointed conservator on the 7th day of February? A.—I don't recall.

Q.—And in the affairs of Charles W. Gay, the heirs were Rosamond Gay and Sarah F. Gay, his sister? A.—Yes, I did.

Q.—And didn't you have her bag packed and tell her to go home, after the funeral? A.—No, sir; absolutely no, sir.

Q.—Did you stay in the house that night? A.—No, sir.

Q.—As a matter of fact you never stayed many nights in the Gay house. Were you afraid of burglars? A.—No, sir. I never was afraid. I had heard the stories of burglars, but nothing that ever frightened me.

The witness said that the body of Charles W. Gay was brought to a church in Lynn and buried from there instead of his home in Andover. Mrs. Luce said that she removed Mrs. Gay from the Andover home to Lynn and the latter part of June, because she felt Mr. Gay's wish before he died. She said Burton S. Flagg, administrator to the estate of Florence W. Gay, who was also treasurer of Abbott Academy, desired to use the house for another purpose, as the academy had purchased the home.

Q.—Did you know in what securities Miss Gay invested the money? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you ever tell Miss Gay not to give any money to Archer? A.—No, sir. I never did, sir.

Mrs. Gay was brought to the home of Mrs. Pickett, a former nurse in the Gay family, the latter part of June and died on August 15, the witness said. An inventory of the estate showed a valuation of $9,265, the witness said.

WAS NOT SOLE HEIR.

Q.—You knew that you were the sole heir to the estate of Rosamond W. Gay? A.—No, sir, because Miss Sarah Gay had an interest.

Witness stated that both Florence W. Gay and Rosamond Gay died without making a will, and that Burton S. Flagg was the one who asked that Mrs. Luce be made conservator for Mrs. Gay.

Mrs. Luce said that Mrs. Gay was in perfect liberty to make a will if she cared to do so.

Q.—Yet you were directing where she should go and away at the Pickett home? A.—I told you that it was at the request of her husband. He said that Mrs. Pickett's home was the place for her.

Mrs. Luce described the condition of Miss Gay during the first month of her illness when she was very much tired and as if she was overworked. She was able to be up and about the room and to go to the bath-room.

Q.—What change did you observe on December 6? A.—She had a very sore throat. It was difficult for her to swallow and she could keep nothing on her stomach.

Q.—Did you talk to Mrs. Skeels on the 'phone? A.—I did.

Q.—Did she do anything for her? A.—She was there attending to her wants.

DISPUTE WITH MRS. SKEELS.

Q.—Did you ever give Miss Gay anything in the line of food or medicine? A.—I cannot recall it. I remember feeding Mrs. Gay a number of times because it took such a long time.

Q.—Yet you never helped feed Miss Gay, who was not Mrs. Skeels' patient and you did feed Mrs. Gay, who was her patient? A.—Miss Gay was her patient.

Q.—You believed that? A.—Certainly. Mrs. Skeels said she would care for Miss Gay for 16 more a week and I supposed she was getting it.

Q.—Ret you and Mrs. Skeels quarrelled about it after Miss Gay's death? A.—Mrs. Skeels quarrelled with me. I told her that I could not give her any money. It was Burton S. Flagg whom she should ask.

Albert Astoff, proprietor of a drug store in Bayonne, N. J., detective William J. Cherlock of Hudson County, N. J., and Mrs. Alfred Wilkins, who arrived today, testified the New Jersey interests in the case. Mrs. Wilkins is the widow of the man for whose death Mrs. Lundgren is held accountable in New Jersey.

WILLED $100 BY MRS. WILLES.

Mrs. Luce, in continued cross-examination, could not recall that she was a beneficiary under the will of Mrs. Carter, but was a beneficiary to the extent of $100 in the estate of her other aunt Mrs. Willes.

Q.—On the day before Miss Gay died, are you positive that you did not see Mrs. Skeels upstairs before you saw her down stairs? A.—I am positive I did not.

Mrs. Luce could not recall that a man's voice had called for some one to come up stairs, when Miss Gay fell ill, and that Mrs. Skeels was broiling a chop in the kitchen, as they talked.

Mrs. Luce could not recall telling Dr. John L. Dow that Miss Gay suffered nausea, but said she did tell him that Miss Gay had a severe sore throat. He thought that he would examine it, she said.

Mrs. Luce could not recall the time that she called Miss Winslow to see whether she gave her any instructions. She did not recall whether she talked about her charges, the condition of the patient or what hours she was to have.

"My best recollection is that I did not call Miss Winslow when she first came. I did not tell her where she was to sleep and I do not know, from when she took her orders," said the witness.

TELLS OF MISS GAY'S DEATH.

She did see Miss Winslow the following morning, when she went to the house, and at that time, Mrs. Luce said, she walked directly upstairs to her room. The day of Miss Gay's death she sat beside the patient's bed, and later ate with Mrs. Gay.

Q.—Did you give her any water? A.—I did not.

Q.—When you were upstairs with Miss Gay, Mrs. Skeels was downstairs, and when you were out of Miss Gay's room was Mrs. Skeels with her? A.—She was.

Q.—Where were you immediately preceding Miss Gay's death? Were you in the room? A.—I do not recall.

Mrs. Luce said that preceding Miss Gay's death she did not see Mrs. Skeels do anything, and to the best of her knowledge Miss Gay had nothing on that day.

Q.—Just prior to Miss Gay's death, where was Mrs. Skeels? A.—I do not recall.

Witness failed to recall seeing Mrs. Skeels in Mrs. Gay's room, putting her to bed, half an hour before Miss Gay died, or that she told Mrs. Skeels to hurry up and go upstairs.

Mrs. Luce emphatically denied that she ever reprimanded Mrs. Skeels for calling Miss Gay attention.

Q.—Yet you never gave Miss Gay any attention, did you? A.—I sat with her, helped her with her meals, sewed on buttons and mended stockings when I went downtown paying bills and doing errands.

Witness could not remember whose stockings they were, but said they were a great many of them. She also washed dishes, she said.

Q.—Yet you can recall all of these things that you did for her, but you never gave her anything in the line of food or drink of water? A.—I didn't ask me if I gave her water.

Witness said that she could not recall the days on which she gave the patient water and said "on the 12th and 13th, Miss Gay's condition was such that she could not drink."

QUESTIONED BY POLICE.

Mrs. Luce said that State Officer Griffin was the first one who asked anything about Miss Gay's symptoms.

Q.—Did you know the neighbors across the street? A.—You mean Judge Jeremiah Mahoney? A.—Yes. I did talk to him in his house as the result of the conversation with Officer Griffin.

Mrs. Luce said that the first she knew of any suspicions that Mrs. Skeels had taken things from the house was from Officer Griffin. She did not know where Officer Griffin received his information. Mrs. Luce said that she had heard of the burglaries.

Q.—Did you talk to Judge Mahoney about the burglaries? A.—After the talk with Officer Griffin, I did.

Q.—Did you recall Mrs. Skeels crying at the funeral of Miss Gay? A.—I don't recall it.

The witness said that funeral arrangements were made by Mr. Gay, and that the undertaker was called by Mrs. Skeels.

Mrs. Luce said that after Miss Gay died, she assumed that Mr. Gay, the local undertaker, would be called, but that Mrs. Skeels said that Miss Gay expressed a desire to have Mr. Bennett of Lawrence called.

She said she had never heard of him, and thought it strange at the time.

Mrs. Luce recalled that she made a record of all that was said in the sick room, but that the goods taken from the Gay home were identified, but said she did not do it there.

SHEETS WERE "LOANED."

Q.—You knew that the Abbott academy girls were obliged to furnish their own bed linen, but until to-day you used the sheets furnished by Mrs. Skeels.—I didn't know it, but I don't see why she should.

Q.—You were obliged to furnish your own bed linen, but until to-day you used the sheets furnished by Mrs. Skeels.—I didn't know it, but I don't see why she should.

"BABY DOLL" BLONDE IS SOUGHT IN KILLING OF AGED HERMIT

SEARCH FOR PAIR IN BOSTON

"Mrs. Baker" and Male Companion Expected to Be Arrested in Few Hours

"Baby Doll," the mysterious blonde wanted in connection with the Chapman murder in Westboro, has been unable to get out of Boston with her male companion, and they will be arrested within the next few hours, according to State police today.

A sensation is predicted when the capture is made. Meantime the State has ordered an examination of the body of the victim, Dwight P. Chapman, to determine whether "Baby Doll" and the man with her could have possibly been the crones who beat the aged Civil War veteran to death in the barn he completed as a home.

Parts of the body were taken to Harvard laboratories today. Certain medical men assert that Chapman, who was found dead yesterday, had not been dead longer than since Tuesday evening. "Mrs. Baker" also known as "Baby Doll," was seen leaving Westboro for Boston on Monday morning.

KNOW NOTHING OF PAIR.

While the detectives who are hunting down the missing blonde in Boston intimate that they have knowledge of her before she went to Westboro, the general public knows nothing of her except that she lived as the wife of her companion, and said their name was Baker. The pair went to Westboro ten days ago, seeking employment as strikers in the Westboro State Hospital, and said they were from New Jersey.

They secured rooms in a house owned by Mr. Chapman, a short distance from the barn he insisted on dwelling in himself.

According to State detectives, Chapman was not seen from early Monday morning until his body was found yesterday, his head crushed by vicious hammer blows and a gaping hole in his abdomen.

ROBBERY THE SOLE MOTIVE.

Some time Monday before the departure for Boston the Bakers are alleged to have gone to a hotel in Westboro, where they declared that Mr. Chapman had gone away for a while, and they were going to administer his property.

Robbery was the sole motive. The aged victim's home had evidently been searched from top to bottom by the murderers, and desperate efforts had been made to force a safe. When opened today there was nothing of value in the safe, and the authorities have no way of knowing whether the slayers of Chapman were rewarded by finding his money.

He is known to have been in possession of a considerable sum of money a few days ago.

TWO MEN IN KHAKI SHIRTS.

The "Baby Doll" clew is the only one being seriously followed just now by the authorities, but another possible lead came to light today in a story concerning two men in khaki shirts seen about the Chapman home on Thursday. According to Mrs. Lawrence Richardson, one of the men went to her house and wanted to rent rooms, saying that "the old man across the street" directed him there. Nothing has been seen of the pair since.

The Bakers, in their hurried flight from Westboro, took with them only one of their two trunks, and in the one remaining are certain articles of clothing marked with the initials R. C. H. Also in the trunk were various articles purchased of firms in Reading, Pa., and other Pennsylvania and New Jersey towns.

The woman, who called herself Mrs. Baker, is about twenty-two years old, and said to be attractive and intelligent. Her companion is about five years older and seldom was seen by the people of Westboro during his stay among them.

CLAIMED A LETTER.

Shortly after his arrival he claimed a letter at the postoffice which was addressed to "Charles Schumann" and mailed at Reading, Pa. Reading police have been wired to investigate this angle of the case.

Chapman was 74 years old and had lived there for twenty years. His pronounced eccentricities were climaxed by his refusal to live in a house willed to him by Mrs. Ella Wood, and his course in occupying a barn and renting rooms to transients such as the Bakers. He is believed to have had about $3,000 in cash concealed somewhere about his home, and a search is being made for it.

Phone User Charged With Taking Strong Box and $792

Following a hearing in chambers, before Judge Parmenter, a warrant was granted charging Roger Price of Dorchester with the larceny of $792 worth of stock, securities, money and jewelry, the property of Joseph Pettrilly of No. 682 Belmont street. He was held in $500 for a later hearing.

According to the evidence, Price went into the house Monday for the purpose of using the telephone. Aside from Mrs. Pettrilly he was the only person in the house. The valuables were in a strong box in a chiffonier in the bedroom, not far from the phone. Mrs. Pettrilly had occasion to step away for a short time, and when she returned Price was gone. The strong box was missing from its accustomed place.

FIRST AID DRILL BY BOY SCOUTS IN BIG DRIVE

Flo-Flo "Perfect 36" Girls and Sinbad Chorus Assist Lads on Common

The Boston Boy Scouts membership and financial drive, which concludes Saturday, received fresh impulse on Boston Common today at noon with an exhibition of life saving and first aid, given by the Waltham Boy Scout Troop, under the direction of Edward E. Freeman, scout executive for the Middlesex District.

Today's campaign in Boston is part of a countrywide drive for one million associate members, headed by William G. McAdoo, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, and endorsed by President Wilson.

At the opening exercises on the Common today demonstrations were given of breaking a death grip and reaching a drowning man. The girls from "Flo-Flo" and the "Sinbad" chorus presented a singing contest in a drive for a "perfect 36" membership enrollment.

BOSTON'S QUOTA $83,333.

At Scout headquarters for the Boston district, the old South Building, No. 294 Washington street, the announcement was made that Boston's quota was $83,333, which must be raised by Saturday night. As Boy Scouts are not allowed to solicit, it is urged that $1, the associate membership fee, be sent in to local headquarters.

Success of the war work of the Boy Scout organization all over the country was attested by statistics from divisional headquarters. Boy Scouts sold over $300,000,000 worth of Liberty Bonds. They located 5,200 carloads of standing walnut. They gathered, dried and shipped over 100 carloads of fruit pits. They worked thousands of war gardens and farms. They directed war literature, aided the Red Cross and all other war relief agencies. And they adopted as their slogan, when the armistice was signed, "The war is over, but our work is not."

They will be turned over to the Federal authorities. The $5 carriers had been passed over the $1 marks.

KEYMEN GET AID OF RAILWAY OPERATORS

Situation in Telegraphers' Strike Unchanged and Bitter Fight Is Promised

By International News Service.

Chicago, June 12.—Claims of the rival organizations notwithstanding, the strike of commercial telegraphers against the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies today gave every indication of settling down into a protracted and bitter fight. The real test of strength in the battle apparently is yet to come.

S. J. Konenkamp, president of the Telegraphers' Union, today said:

"We realized when we called this strike that it would be a long fight and we knew that we would have to fight Mr. Burleson as well as the telegraph companies. We are prepared to fight to the last ditch and are absolutely confident of the final result."

Statements from officials of the telegraph companies in every city affected by the strike indicate a similar unrelenting attitude and that it very evident that there is no idea as yet of capitulation in any camp.

O. R. T. COMES TO RESCUE.

Probably the most significant development today was the issuance of an order from St. Louis by P. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, instructing members of that organization not to handle commercial messages of the Western Union and Postal companies.

Coupled with this announcement was a report that the O. R. T. president is preparing to call out the railway telegraphers in sympathy with the commercial operators. The report, however, has not been verified.

Another development that became known today was the decision of the Atlanta Federation of Trades directing that a telegram be sent to President Wilson urging his intervention in behalf of the strikers.

MORE OUT IN SOUTH.

Reports of the number of men on strike throughout the country show little change in the situation today. So far as the Western Union is concerned, the greatest inroads on their employes seem to have been made in the Southeastern States, where a strike was in progress before the general strike was called. Elsewhere throughout the country there seems to have been little hampering of the companies' operations, generally speaking.

Jacksonville, Tampa, Birmingham, Charleston and other cities in the South and Southeast reported their forces badly crippled by the strike.

Telegraph Officials Say Striking Operators Will Be Beaten in Three Days

Telegraph company officials in Boston today declared that the strike would be over and the telegraphers beaten within three days. Union representatives, on the other hand, said that they would have brought about a complete tie-up in this city within that time.

Eight messenger boys went on strike in sympathy with the telegraphers today and made efforts to induce all the other boys in the offices of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph to join them. The latest and most unusual development came to light when the boys reported at strike headquarters in Tey Hall on Dover street for instructions. Delegations were immediately sent to all offices in an effort to spread the strike among the boys.

Secretary William E. Conroy of local district Union No. 4 was authority for the claim that scores of operators still at their keys would join the strikers within the next day or two. Mr. Conry said the unorganized operators believed in the cause of the strikers, but had not gone with their work because they had no one to lead them.

"They have found a leader now," declared Mr. Conry, "and this man promises that they will not fail."

Officials of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies declared that the second day of the strike showed no gains by the strikers. All offices were operated today, although some of them were obliged to get along with forces materially reduced.

Electric Workers Not Likely to Declare a Sympathetic Strike to Aid the Operators

By International News Service.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 12.—The electric workers are not likely to declare a nation-wide telephone strike on Monday in sympathy with the telegraph strike, it was said today at the convention of the American Federation of Labor. Officials of the union advised that no action be taken at the time.

Samuel Gompers conferred with other federation officials today on the telegraph strike but said he had no statement to make.

MILK AND ALCOHOL FIGURE IN FINES

In Dorchester Police Court today, before Judge William F. Merritt, Walter S. Weaver of Washington street, Dorchester, was found guilty of selling denatured alcohol in a bottle not properly labeled "Poison." The complaint was made by Patrolman Joseph Trainor of Station 18. Weaver was fined $50, which he paid. Abraham Solomon of Needham street, Dedham, also appeared before Judge Merritt on complaint of Professor James O. Jordan of the Boston Bureau of Milk Inspection on two counts of having milk in his possession not up to the standard. He paid a fine of $5 on each count.

CIRCUS COMES TO CRIPPLED CHILDREN AT HOSPITAL

This clown carried joy to at least one "kiddie," singled out from all the rest for the high honor of a personal conference.

Little girls with pale faces, who have gone down long ways of suffering in their few years, little boys with small limbs in plaster casts, brave, cheerful nurses and grim, big elephants and clowns not too stuck up to shake hands with any little boy who felt sociable, celebrated, in the name of great jollity and great kindness, the coming of the big circus to Boston.

The celebration took place today in the sun-drenched, green-lawned courtyard of the Children's Hospital on Longwood avenue, Brookline. About the open-air corridor were drawn up arm chairs and wheel chairs. Little crutches were there, too. But out in the centre of the green, on a wonderful red carpet, was the circus.

"The greatest show on earth" had come to its audience, though generally the audience of "the greatest show on earth" comes to it.

"The trained seals are best," maintained Johnny, whose arm is in a sling.

"Well, anyway, the clowns are the funniest," John's neighbor added quickly.

"Say, ain't it grand to be a circus actor, and wear black stripes all circly on your white pants, and twist, and twist, and a clothes line grows out of your waist, with the wash all on it. Oh, gee, ain't it grand to be a circus actor?"

So the music played, and the elephants sat down on the beautiful lady without "squashing" her, and the trained dogs ran and jumped, and the great tall man stood up while the horse ran under his legs and here him off all mounted—for the circus came to the children.

"Which was the best?" asked a little blue-clad nurse of her flock.

Small Mary pronounced gravely, explaining the philosophies of circuses.

"Some people think elephants are best, drawled small Mary, with authority in her voice. "And some people think elephants are best. But I don't know. For everything's always good at the circus—oh-ho-ho! Really! Oh—oh—just look at the seal playing the cornet; Miss Beatty, seals at the circus—oh-ho-ho! Really!"

Chickens at $5 apiece. That's the price James D'Angelo was obliged to pay in Newton Court today when he was fined $15 for killing three of his neighbor's fowl. The complainant, Nicholas De Luffi, said his chicken coop door flew open as he was feeding his poultry and these birds flew over into D'Angelo's yard. D'Angelo hied him to a pile of bricks, conveniently located at his gate, and proceeded to "shoo" the chickens back home. Incidentally watching three of them into the chicken coop of De Luffi.

At the annual banquet of the club of Heaven Club of City Point, held at the Quincy House, President Joseph O'Meara was given a gold watch and chain by club members. Rev. John F. Burke, pastor of the Gate of Heaven Church and spiritual director of the club, was guest of honor and principal speaker. He commended the work and purposes of the club, which aims to provide wholesome entertainment for young men and keep them away from harmful amusements.

Mayor Peters today announced that he had called for Monday, June 16, at 4 o'clock, in the old Aldermanic Chamber, the first meeting of the committee appointed by him to determine what Boston men who died in the service should be individually honored by the city. Judge Michael J. Murray is chairman of the committee. Morton Prince has been made a member of the committee.

'KIDS' TO BATHE IN FROG POND TILL SEPT. 15

Mayor Ignores Threat of Spinsters to Move From Boston if He Did It

Three Back Bay spinsters who told Mayor Peters that they would move from Boston if children were allowed to bathe in the Frog Pond a couple of hours each day, sent in their letters of protest with the following postscript: "We don't know how we can move, as many others have decided to also move, but we have decided between the three of us that it is no small matter to us to move. The complaints come the Back Bay maids from the Arlington street district, the fashionable section of the city. The ladies of the neighborhood have been heard from before, and it is said that they have succeeded in having the Public Garden closed to baseball. It is also said that the ladies have been instrumental in having the Boston Common closed to baseball.

"No more bathing. Suits must be put on at home."

SEARCH GYPSY CAMPS FOR WOMEN STONERS

Clinton, June 12—Gypsy camps in this section were searched by the Clinton police department in an attempt to locate three women charged with stoning the statue of the Virgin in a shrine on the grounds of the Church of Our Lady of the Rosary on Cameron street and, while doing so, made insulting gestures. The shrine and statue narrowly escaped serious damage, as the stones were large but the aim of the women was poor. The women, when a crowd began to gather, escaped by getting into a gypsy wagon and driving away before the police reached the scene.

Manchester, N. H., June 12—Francis W. At the same time Miss Sarah Mulroy, twenty-three years, who worked alongside of Lester, who is twenty-eight years, in the Amoskeag Mills left her home. Labor men who feel great confidence in Lester are puzzled at the case. An investigation of the union's accounts may be undertaken, and the police have been asked to aid in the case.

DRY CONDITIONS RUIN FOR U. S., SAYS GOMPERS

Tells Labor Delegates They Would Wreck Nation's Social Fabric

Atlantic City, N. J., June 12—A demand for the immediate repeal of war-time prohibition, the story of Mrs. Thomas Mooney, wife of the California labor man, who was convicted of perpetrating bomb crimes, and the presence of General Crozey of "army fame," featured the business of the thirty-ninth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Bitter opposition to the repeal of war-time prohibition was advanced by delegates from the Northwest states. The Washington delegates were strongly against the repeal, but when it was inferred that it was one of the strongest elements tending toward Bolshevism the twelve hundred men and women overwhelmingly registered their desire for its immediate repeal. The roll call showed 26,476 in favor of repeal and 4,026 against.

WRECK SOCIAL FABRIC.

In stating his position before the convention, President Gompers said: "This is no attempt, as it is no time, to deal radically with the evils of drink. They exist and should be corrected, but to rescue the few and bring disaster to the many is a policy too fatuous to admit of discussion. A general on the battlefield does not turn all his soldiers into stretcher-bearers. He wins the battle first and aids the wounded afterwards.

"That is precisely the condition that confronts us in this country today. To save a comparatively small number of people from over-indulgence in an evil habit we are taking a chance of wrecking the social and economic fabric of the nation. It is just as futile as it would be to save the people in the sick bay of a torpedoed ship and let all of the rest of the crew and passengers drown."

PRISON AN EDUCATION.

Pausing between sobs Mrs. Ruth Mooney told the circumstances of the conviction of her husband.

"A term in prison is an education," she said, "and I urge all you delegates to go there and try it.

"The woman who was the chief witness and on whose testimony one of the men was convicted, was a woman of the underworld and had been before a Los Angeles court in 1913 on a charge of murder."

In the interest of holding a big anti-beer demonstration in Washington on June 14, "General" Jacob Cozey of Massillon, Ohio, consulted with President Gompers. Cozey said he would ask the delegates to walk from here to Washington but if they did not care to do so he would supply automobiles.

Delegate Colpoys of the Washington Central Labor Union, a brother of ex-Representative Colpoys of South Boston, denied the story that brewery interests were paying the expenses of the delegates to Washington or that the entire expense was assumed by the brewery workers' unions.

NECK BROKEN, BUT EXPECT MAN TO LIVE

Leominster, June 12—Joseph A. Richard, thirty-two years, is living although his neck is broken. Richard was in an automobile which upset at Sterling a short time ago and at that time was not supposed to be seriously injured.

Later it was discovered that the third vertebra of his neck was broken. Ordinarily such an injury means death, but the man's neck is in a plastic cast and indications are that he may live.

CREEL TELLS OF "MUTINY" IN ULSTER

The Irish Question

By GEORGE CREEL,

Former Chief of the United States Bureau of Public Information.

In the previous chapters Mr. Creel reviewed Ireland's ancient struggles for freedom. He recalled the efforts of Erin's heroes and champions, taking the reader through the dark days of blood and tears to the parliamentary battle over the Home Rule Bill in 1914. Mr. Creel announced in his opening paragraphs that his purpose was to furnish sufficient facts upon which to base an answer to the question of whether the Irish contentions were just.

Copyright, 1919, by the Metro Newspaper Syndicate.

Redmond, swallowing bitterness and checking the rage of his followers, stated that the proposals marked the extremest limit of concession and that the Nationalists would only acquiesce in them if they were frankly accepted by their Ulster opponents.

Bonar Law and Carson refused according to Redmond's statement, and the bombshell exploded. The doubt that most amused note was sounded by Bonar Law when he declared: Soldiers are citizens like the rest of us, and we have got the information that the army had been seduced from its allegiance. On March 14, parading in Belfast, the Ulster volunteers pledged to arise all as one man, the day that the British withdraws to General Paget in Ireland to take "special precautions for safeguarding depots and other places where arms or stores are kept."

Bonar Law now stood before the country as the arbiter between the power to the War office order was a mutiny. General Gough, leader of the 3rd Cavalry Brigade, handed in his resignation and fifty-seven of his officers did likewise. They refused to proceed to Ulster to enforce law and order. Not a resignation was accepted. It was a case of mutiny condoned, and the sole result was to make credible the claim that the army was controlled by the Unionists and not by the government.

RIFLES DISTRIBUTED.

The next "show" at duly alerted authority came on April 24, when 35,000 rifles and 2,000,000 cartridges, bought in Hamburg, were landed at Larne and distributed through Ulster by motor trucks in open defiance of the proclamation forbidding the import of arms.

Mr. Asquith stated that in view of this grave and unprecedented outrage the government would take appropriate measures without delay to vindicate the authority of the law, but nothing was done, and from this point on a fatal note of weakness crept into the words and policy of the ministry. Every week began to tell intensity of a "clean-out" organization in the northeast of Ireland" from the rest of Home Rule.

It is difficult to assign a reason for this new policy of indecision and actual cowardice. The powerful Labor party, the Liberal party itself and a majority of the English people were plainly eager that the test be one between the government and the Ulster rebels.

On April 6, shortly after the Dough mutiny, Home Rule had passed its second reading in an undiminished majority. Then, on May 25, when the bill came up for third reading, it passed enthusiastically. Now it was the turn of Mr. Asquith to have ended the matter decisively.

ASQUITH IDLE.

He could have brought the session to an end and added a clause given to the Lords for consideration, handed the bill to the King for signature. Instead of that, he did nothing, leaving Redmond and Carson to fight it out between themselves. On July 2, Carson insisted that he had come to make arrangements for the final settlement, that he was going to have more Manchester, and that 100,000 of the Ulster Volunteers, a Home Rule organization called the National Volunteers and spread over Ireland to offset its weakening. Carson increasingly arrogant and at least a part of the British army openly on his side. Ulster, these National Volunteers now began to make demands, stating that he was going to have more Manchesters

J NOT IGNORE NSTRUCTIONS OF MRS. EDDY

tace Also Refutes Story of Threats Against Science Church Board

bert W. Eustace, trustees of the tian Science Publishing Society, red today before Judge Frederic s, sitting as master, that the ees never intended to disregard nstructions given by Mrs. Mary r G. Eddy, founder of the Chris- Science faith, nor did the trustees to separate the publishing so- from the Mother church.

Eustace spoke in continued tes- in the controversy between the ing trustees and the church rs as to the respective duties wers of each body.

attention of Mr. Eustace was alled to a letter of the direc- of the church written to the tees on February 24, 1919, in h the directors stated that an eretation of Mrs. Eddy's words em to believe that it was her on and desire that the direc- ould supervise the affairs of blishing society, and limiting sices to sign a paper acknow- g the responsible and supreme ty of the directors."

letter also contained a re- that the trustees should ascer- whether or not they intended erate the publishing society as Mother Church.

EES REFUSED TO SIGN.

Eustace said that the trustees to sign a paper acknowledg- authority claimed by the di- , and after February 28, the re- pted to sign how the cals should be conducted. On 17, the directors notified that they had removed ay be Islands as a trustee, the er of and being that he was ield it cord with the doctrines ne and Science. In the letter of J. there appeared the rinse governing board," and n reply to Mr. Whipple not know of any paper would warrant the use of such em. "The Christian Science d or Directors" was the only n Mr. Eustace was aware of that ity might be used.

Eustace said that in an asso- n with Mr. Rowlands extending several years he (Mr. Eustace) ding which Mr. Rowlands ever do which would indicate that did not understand the principles Christian Science, or that he failed any respect to follow the teachings Mrs. Eddy. At no time was Mr. wlands assertive or contentious. his attitude toward all with om he came in contact was friend- y and kindly.

"Not in a single instance," said Mr. Eustace, "did Mr. Rowlands attempt o convert or enlarge the duties of the trustee, or change the relations which had existed between the trus- tees and the directors. That also was true of all the trustees."

DENIES STORY OF THREATS.

The assumptions of the directors in their letter to the trustees in which they asserted their supreme control over all Christian Science matters, were unwarranted, Mr. Eustace said, as also was a statement that the trus- tees had "wastefully employed" sev- al lawyers to defend their supposed hts under the trust deed of Mrs. ddy. "We never," said Mr. Eustace, set up the deed of trust against the laws of the church, and never made threat of any kind against the di- ors."

r. Eustace said he knew of no d or sound reason why Mr. Row- s should have been removed as a stee, and for that reason the trus- refused to elect his successor. on the trustees filed their bill in ty in the Supreme Court they had eived information that the direc- proposed to carry into effect purported power to control the e of the publishing society. ese learned from other sources the directors had declared that publishing business belonged to and in short, they threatened if the trustees did not comply their demand, they would make publishing company an empty ll.

TAR AND FEATHER OFFICER WHO STOLE WIFE

Two Brothers Arrested After They Punish British Knight Errant

By ROBERT WELLS RITCHIE,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.
Special Cable Dispatch.

London, June 12.—Lieutenant Francis Wright, M. C., who, assisted by his younger brother, tarred and feathered Sub-Lieutenant Desond Kinahan in a Cambridge garage on Sunday night and subsequently chained and paddocked him to a tree, has been arrested.

This might not be worth cabling if it didn't refer to circumstances wilder than that of the mere assault on "this rabbit Kinahan," as Lieutenant Wright calls his victim.

But the fact that every newspaper carries a full account on the front page and the further fact that it is the talk of the day everywhere here make the circumstances significant.

HOME WAS WRECKED.

The necessity of the significance lies exactly in the measure of the distance between Texas and England. In similar circumstances a Texas coroner's jury would now be sitting, but in England they are not so direct, but nevertheless equally resentful when an absent soldier's home is wrecked—for that is the alleged deed for which the wrath of the Wright brother was visited upon Kinahan.

They have set a new precedent in dealing with one of the most delicate problems and this is what has set England talking. The action of the two brothers — one is practically helpless through war wounds—has brought into publicity one of the most serious post-war problems of Britain.

"DECLINING MORALS."

Certain scandal sheets published only Sundays carry with dreary reiteration stories of faithless wives of soldiers, the result almost invariably being divorce. Recently Justice Darling, sitting in such a case, made asperations from the bench upon what he described as the declining morals of British women. That resulted in an outcry from the scandalized feminine readers.

In short, Elidor Glyn's "Three Weeks" threatens to become the valid medium of certain class of dancing, care-free young matrons.

Now the Wright Brothers have cut the Gordian knot with tar instead of bullets. They are widely applauded for their act, which, however, raises the interesting question: "Is it better than killing or the divorce court?"

The Evening News publishes the photograph of the "woman in the case," which is inscribed "To Dukie with Sweet Memories."

DESECRATION OF STATUE COSTS GYPSIES $30

William Stanley Pays Fines for Wife and Children in Clinton Court

Clinton, June 12.—Charged with desecrating a statue of the Virgin on the grounds of the Church of Our Lady of the Rosary, Mrs. Bessie Stanley and her two daughters, Ida and Mary, wife and children of William Stanley, the well-known gypsy tribe leader of Providence, R. I., were each fined $10 today. They appeared in District Court before Judge Jonathan Smith. The fines were paid under protest by William Stanley.

The scene in court was an unusual one, as the two women, all in tears, protested their innocence.

Four school children, a girl of twelve and three younger boys, were witnesses against the women. According to the children and Chief of Police John T. Magee, the women threw stones at the shrine, defacing the statue slightly and also breaking windows in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Stanley, who is about sixty-five, and her daughters all took the stand. They declared that the stones were thrown by a crowd of about twenty-five children. Miss Ida, a woman of twenty-five made a marked impression by her gypsy type of beauty. The defendants said that they were waiting for a car when the children began to call them names and throw stones. A woman living in the neighborhood, the women said, invited them to take refuge in her piazza.

Rev. Edward J. Fitzgerald, pastor of the Church of Our Lady of the Rosary, was in court, and to him Ida Stanley made a passionate denial of the charges. As her father paid the fines, he criticized the court for accepting the testimony of children against that of his wife and daughters.

Jack London's Last Novel

HEARTS OF THREE

Never Before Published

By JACK LONDON

Author of "The Call of the Wild," "The Valley of the Moon," "The Sea Wolf" "The Iron Heel," "White Fang" and Other Famous Novels

The theme of this story was suggested to the author by Charles W. Goddard.

"AND if he should die right now, there are, either Maya or you can read the knots."

"No, senor. Mr. Talbot is the last living man who knows that ancient language."

But the conversation was broken upon. Leoncia and Ricardo, who, having tethered their mules with the others, were gazing sheepishly down from the rim of the depression. The faces of Henry and Francis lighted with joy at the sight of Leoncia, while their mouths opened and their tongues articulated censure and scolding. Also they insisted on her returning with Ricardo.

"But you cannot send me away before giving me something to eat," she persisted, slipping down the slope of the depression with pure feminine sprightliness, to join in the discussion on a closer and more intimate basis.

Aroused by their voices, the old Maya came out of a trance of prayer and observed her with wrath. And in wrath he burst out into interweighing occasional Spanish words and phrases with the flood of denunciation in Maya.

"He says the women are no good," the peon interrupted in the first pause. "He says women bring quarrels among men, the quick steel and sudden death. Bad luck and God's wrath are not God's way and they lead men to destruction. He says women are the eternal enemy of God and man, forever keeping God and man apart. He says women have ever striven to lead men away of God and have kept men from traveling the path of God to God. He says this woman must go back."

With laughing eyes Francis acknowledged his appreciation of this diatribe, while Henry said:

"Now, old man, be good. Leoncia? You see what a Maya thinks of your sex. This is no place for you, California's the place. Women rule there."

"The trouble is that the old man is remembering the woman who brought misfortune upon him in the heyday of his youth," Francis said. He turned to the peon. "Ask your father to read the knot-writing and see what it says for or against women traveling in the footsteps of God."

In vain the ancient high priest fumbled the sacred writing. There was not on the cord the slightest authoritative objection to woman.

Mixing Experiences

"He's mixing his own experiences up with his mythology," Francis grinned triumphantly. "So I guess it's pretty near all right, Leoncia, for you to stay for a bite to eat. This coffee's made. After that——"

But after that came before. Scarcely had they seated themselves on the ground and began to eat when Francis, standing up to serve Leoncia with tortillas, had his hat knocked off.

"My word!" he said. "That was sudden. Henry, take a squint and see who tried to pot-shoot me."

The next moment, save for the peons below, all eyes were peeping across the rim of the foot-step. What they saw, creeping upon them from every side, was a nondescript and bizarrely clad horde of men, who seemed members of no particular race, but composed of all races. The breeds of the entire human family seemed to have moulded their skins.

"The mangiest bunch I ever laid eyes on," was Francis' comment.

"They are the famous," the peon muttered, betraying fear.

"And who are they, Senor Francis?" Instantly he answered: "And who are the Caroni?"

"The Caroni from hell," was the peon's answer. "They are more savage than the Spaniard, more terrible than the Maya. They murder every man they meet, but desire not to kill female among them. They are the devils and the devil's wives from hell."

Here the Maya arose, and with evening Notice announced Leoncia for the second time out of the fray's trouble. A bullet crossed his shoulder and half whirled him about.

Once him quite, Henry paused to Francis. "Here are only men who know the Love language, and they are not. Whatever that may mean. Face out, pat flashed.

Francis obeyed with an outreach of arm to the old fellow's legs, jerking him down in a crumpled attention-like heap.

Henry tossed his rifle and elected a fusillade in response. Next Ricardo, Francis and the peon leaped to the fray. But the roll was still rubbing his shoulder. Henry paused across the far rim of the foot-step upon a rugged wall of mountain bryond.

"Hold on!" shouted Francis in a vain attempt to make himself heard above the shooting.

MURPHY HINTS AT STARTLING DISCLOSURES

Barney's Lawyer to Make Statement After Trial, Which Begins Wednesday

Now that the case of Thomas F. Murphy, attorney for Herman L. Barney, has been disposed of by Judge Connelly in the Brighton court, the work of preparing Barney's case for trial, which opens on Wednesday next, is being rapidly pushed.

Though Judge Connelly discharged Murphy from custody and cleared him of all blame in connection with Barney's escape from the Charles street jail, the attorney is by no means satisfied.

Murphy insists that his arrest was entirely unwarranted and hints that once the Barney case is disposed of he will have something interesting to say concerning his own troubles.

ARREST "HIGH-HANDED."

"I never have heard," said Attorney Murphy, "of such high-handed action. There has never been the thinnest thread of suspicion which might be directed toward me. In my dealings with the office of District Attorney Pelletier and with the police, in connection with the death of Patrolman Delninger, I have been open and above board.

"It doesn't seem reasonable nor consistent to suppose that after having made the arrangements for turning Barney over to the police I would have made plans for his escape or have had anything to do with such a move on his part. I have always felt fairly confident of being successful in a trial with Barney.

ORDERS DISCHARGE.

"There was nothing in the case which would prompt me to acquiesce in any such plan as an escape. As an officer of the court it is my duty to uphold the law. That I have always done and shall continue to do regardless of what some may think. I am counsel for Herman L. Barney, and as such am ready to proceed with a trial before a jury in this county."

After a day spent in listening to evidence for the defendants, during the course of which the announcement was made that Barney himself had purchased the straw hat instead of Marion O'Brien, Judge Connelly rendered his verdict in the case. He held Mrs. Ashenden and Mrs. O'Brien for the July Grand Jury and then ordered Attorney Murphy's discharge.

On Monday they will be called on to offer new sureties, Mrs. O'Brien in $600 and Mrs. Ashenden in $1,000. Following the ruling of Judge Connelly, Mrs. Ashenden broke down and it was some minutes before she was able to leave the courthouse for her home.

'UNPARDONABLE SIN' RUNS GAMUT OF LIFE EMOTIONS

Boy Scout hero (Wesley Barry), comes to rescue of heroine (Blanche Sweet).

"The Unpardonable Sin," the film dramatization of Major Rupert Hughes' thrilling story of motherlife, human suffering, inhuman brutality and thrilling adventure, are playing at the Majestic Theatre, is of a peculiar and particular interest this week because it is "Boy Scout Week" and an American Boy Scout plays one of the most important and entertaining roles in the production.

This unusually strong and vital unspoken drama displays vividly how the young Boy Scout lives up to the ideals set for him by that patriotic organization. His unselfishness, his devoted love of country, his respect for women, his alertness of mind, his fearlessness and his noble bearing are made most impressive, and his ability to act when the time for action comes is part of the plot of the drama.

A REAL BOY.

Little Wesley Barry, who plays the George Washington Sticker," the Kansas Boy Scout in the picture, takes his part that of a real boy, full of fun and mischief, to whom the Boy Scouts have brought all the benefits to be derived from membership in their wonderful organization. His acting is one of the most splendid pieces of juvenile characterization ever thrown upon the screen.

"The Unpardonable Sin" might have been made especially as propaganda for "Boy Scout Week," so thoroughly does it bring home to the audience the advantages of that body of healthy youngsters. It is for this reason a film that every parent will want to see.

STRENGTHENS COMRADESHIP.

"George Washington Sticker," however, is not the only Boy Scout in the picture. He is the little Belgian Boy Scout, portrayed by tiny Bobby Connolly, whose work serves to show how the real boys of other lands are also enlisted in this world-wide movement, and to impress upon all the comradeship existing between the young members of all nations.

How important the lessons learned by Boy Scouts in building camp fires, and other activities may be in actual saving of human lives, is illustrated strongly by the film. All round it is an ideal boost for the Boy Scouts.

MARKET MEN FINED $200 FOR BAD MEAT

The M. Hindick Company, dealers in beef on Blackstone street, were fined $200 by Judge Callahan on a charge of offering unwholesome meat for sale without making this fact known to the buyer.

Samuel Cohen, a retailer on Warren street, bought the meat.

Mr. Mindick, an officer of the company, declined to take back the meat when it was returned the next day to the Board of Health, upon being notified, condemned three of the five rounds.

HURLEY WOULD RETURN SHIPS TO OWNERS

By International News Service.

Washington, June 12.—American merchant ships should be turned back to private ownership and operation immediately, Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board recommended to the Senate Commerce Committee today, in outlining a permanent shipping policy for the United States.

FAVORS COMPETITION.

The government should retire from the shipbuilding industry, Hurley told the committee, and should not construct any ships beyond the present program, except to complete the balance of a fleet.

Competitive operations, with steamship operators having a free hand in competition, was urged by Hurley as one method by which the American merchant marine might be stimulated. He recommended the appointment of government directors to operate the government-owned ships and to act as liaison officers between the government and private interests.

Legislation which would permit the President to sell steel ships on part payment, was advocated by Chairman Hurley. He advised that ships be sold to American citizens on an initial payment of 25 per cent., with other legislation which would authorize the President to sell ships to foreign owners.

WOULD CREATE BIG FUND.

The initial payments on ships sold to private owners, he added, would create a fund of more than $70,000,000, and he recommended that this fund be used to encourage shipping interests and for the development of new trade routes.

As a stimulus to shipping, Hurley recommends installation of a government overseas mail service and an overseas parcel post, which would be paid for by the government.

Raymond Stephens of the shipping board offered a minority report which took issue with the recommendations submitted by Chairman Hurley regarding control of the shipping board over shipping in the future.

Admits Monkeys May Talk, but Not to Prof. Garner

By Universal Service.

Philadelphia, June 12.—Alfred Mora Gallon, big game hunter and wealthy manufacturer, who financed the expedition of Professor Harlow B. Archbold and Richard L. Garner to the French Congo, this week issue with the statement of the two scientists regarding the discovery of talking monkeys in the Africa wilds.

"It is possible, of course, that monkeys have a language," says Mr. Gallon, "but if they have it is all their own. No human being can understand it."

Professor Garner, he said, was able to gather information of unmistakable value regarding the habits of monkeys. This data has been of very important asset to scientists and naturalists."

The Best Way to Use Rouge

The specialist who created the wonderful La-may Face Powder has invented a new rouge. The rouge is inside the puff. All you do is to rub the puff on your face. It comes through the puff just as you need it. It goes on splendidly and stays on the face until you wash it off. The puff is in a dainty metal box. The box cannot break and the rouge will not crumble like the old-fashioned kind. This newly invented rouge is called La-may French Rouge (Amie). It gives a beautiful color that looks natural under the strongest light. There are two colors—medium and dark. The fifty-cent package will last six months, yet the box is small enough to fit your purse. When you use this pure, harmless Rouge and see how much better it stays on, you will understand why thousands of women say it is the best they have ever used. Because La-may Rouge is so new, your dealer may not have it yet, but he can easily get it. Show this notice to your dealer, and if he refuses to get you a package you may order by mail from Herbert Boystone, 16 E. 18th St., New York.

The Rouge Is Inside the Puff. The Dainty Metal Box Cannot Break.

U. S. DROPS PLAN FOR SUMMER CAMPS

Army Lacks Funds to Maintain Training for Civilians

In answer to several inquiries received in relation to Summer training camps for officers and civilians, a letter has been issued by the War Department stating that there are no funds available for transportation, subsistence or clothing for training camps for reserve officers and civilians during the coming Summer months, and that it is not deemed advisable to attempt any civilian training camps this Summer in view of unsettled conditions in civilian pursuits which would perhaps prevent many desirable citizens from attending. Training camps for reserve officers are not contemplated for this Summer.

In response to several requests for information the War Department strongly disapproves of the use by officers of the army of their titles to advance private ventures; that although a record for long and honorable service in the army carries with it a security for fair dealing, it is not calculated to augment the possessor's judgment of the value of reliability of commercial propositions. The department further states that an officer's title is conferred upon him for use in military service, and the War Department does not consider that he has any right to use it as a commercial asset. It is considered that such use of his title places him in an attitude unfavorable to him as a soldier.

What Is the Ideal Modern Wife?

MANY an American warrior, who never dreamed, prior to the war, of marrying outside of his native land, has found his ideal of womanhood overseas. Witness the number of brides taken by our service men.

This romance phase of the war has brought to the fore the absorbing question of what is the best kind of a mate for a man.

Has war broadened or in any other way changed the general masculine view toward womanhood. Our young men have acquired a stern realization of life. Will they be more critical in their search for a wife?

Exactly what is the ideal modern wife?

The Boston American invites its masculine readers to send in their ideas on this interesting question.

A prize of $25 will be awarded for the letter which, in the opinion of the judges, embodies the clearest and most unbiased answer. For the letter adjudged second best $10 will be awarded, and for the letter adjudged third best $5.

The decisions will be made by Beatrice Fairfax.

Confine your letter to 200 words, write on one side of the paper only and give your name and address. Only initials will be used if you so prefer.

The contest closes Saturday noon, June 14. No letters received after that date will be considered. The announcement of the winners will be made during the week of June 23.

Address letters to Boston American Magazine Page, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

Teeth and the Stomach

By Brice Belden, M. D.

ULCERS of the stomach are common enough, but one occasionally wonders why there are not more of them, considering some of the dietetic habits of the American people.

Ulcers of the stomach or duodenum (the first part of the small intestine) are believed to be due to the action of the digestive juices upon areas of local malnutrition. The cause of the malnutrition is frequently obscure, but bacterial teeth is believed now by many to account for it.

These ulcers usually involve both the mucous membrane and the deeper structures, and cause pain, tenderness, excessive acidity, the raising of blood, vomiting, etc. Sometimes they perforate, which causes very acute symptoms and necessitates prompt operation.

This condition is more common in women than in men. Most cases occur between the ages of twenty and forty. Anemia seems to predispose of it.

The outlook as regards cure is favorable in recent cases. Rest and appropriate diet come first in the management. For the first two or three weeks the patient should remain in bed. In severe cases it is best to withhold food from the stomach for a few days.

After the pain has abated the diet should consist of milk, buttermilked juice, animal broths and egg-white.

If the patient does well the symptoms may disappear in three or four weeks, after which he may be allowed soft-boiled eggs, scraped beef, boiled sweetbreads, the tender part of oyster, the white meat of chicken, well made gruel and custard pudding.

Certain drugs are skillfully and effectively used by physicians in the treatment of gastric and duodenal ulceration.

Unless the teeth are put in perfect order not much need be expected in the way of improvement.

Bertha: "And do you believe that a woman always turns to the last page first when she picks up a book?" Percy: "Well, I have no reason to doubt it. I know it is the nature of the fair sex to want the last word!"

The Rhyming Optimist

OUR TOURISTS

By Aline Michaelis

IN days of yore our tourists were, when ... home from trips abroad, a ... sight to stare that kept folks ... Their looks and ... tint seemed to state, "We've been to foreign shores. Don't ask a one to ... the new or do the ... chores. We know we'll be ... bored frightfully here in this dismal ... for we have seen a king and queen and spoken to their cook. It should be plain why we're in pain here in the land so crude; we'd rather be in gay Paree where French is parley vooed!" With tearful plaint they say "this ain't like England's charming isle," or, "I would be well could we but dwell far up upon the Nile." This sort of thing I'd say and sing until we thought it true. We felt we must get up and dust, all Europe's views to view. And when we strike a streak of luck and ... made a thousand bones, we weren't content until we went where ruins grow and thrones. Our tourists now are not highbrow, as from a foreign shore, all khaki-clad and bronzed and gay, they turn towards home once more. For ancient Nile and crocodile they do not seem to pine, nor do they care to linger there in lands across the brine. They don't go much on teas and such, on ennui they're not strong; we hear no sighs for sunny skies, none ask a sojourn long. And it's a strange and happy change to hear our tourists now cry: "Hip, hooray, I'm home to stay. I want to kiss the cow."

Leadership Ends

On the eve of her marriage a young girl was very pensive. "Tomorrow," she said, "Reginald will conduct me to the altar. There," she added smilingly, "his leadership will end!"

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears in red on both sides of the bottle. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing spurious medicines into their families.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

Your Friend, the Physician.

The history of all medicines carries with it the story of battles against popular beliefs; fights against prejudice; even differences of opinion among scientists and men devoting their lives to research work; laboring always for the betterment of mankind. This information is at the hand of all physicians. He is with you at a moments call be the trouble trifling or great. He is your friend, your household counselor. He is the one to whom you can always look for advice even though it might not be a case of sickness. He is not just a doctor. He is a student to his last and final call. His patients are his family and to lose one is little less than losing one of his own flesh and blood.

Believe him when he tells you—as he will—that Fletcher's Castoria has never harmed the littlest babe, and that it is a good thing to keep in the house. He knows.

PRICES HIGHER ON BOSTON EXCHANGE

Local Fluctuations Were Fractional as a Rule During Morning

Firmness featured the Boston market at the opening, but it was more or less irregular during the first hour. It became strong in the second and for the most part were advancing gains. Largest advances were in Punta Alegre, 1 in Smelting and 1 in Utah Copper. Additional changes. They were in a point or more.

United Shoe preferred was among the most active stocks, and receded more than a point, and Boston Elevated was off a fraction. Most price changes were fractional.

Coppers were quiet but firm. Seneca sold at its highest record price, but reacted during the morning. Wallbut sold at its highest since listed on this exchange, and Carson Hill.

The improvement in the metal market held little influence upon copper shares in this market this morning. A Butte dispatch quotes an American Smelting official as saying his company sold 12,000,000 pounds of copper at about 18¾ cents a pound one day last week, and that it is now selling more than it is producing. He says the market is 18¾ cents and 19 cents or a fraction more within two weeks.

Patriotic Americans Who Hold America First in Their Hearts Cannot Follow President Wilson

When it comes to a choice between allegiance to a political organization or allegiance to America, there is no room for hesitation in the Hearst newspapers.

First, last and all the time, now and hereafter, we stand for America, for the welfare of the American people, for the honor of the American flag, for the power and independence of the American nation, for the renown of the great name of America in the earth.

With no consent of ours will the strength and might of the Republic be diminished on land or sea, or our flag lowered beneath any flag that flies—never, never, never.

Secretary Daniels, since his return from Paris, proposes that we dismantle our navy and strike our flag to the nondescript flag of a foreign alliance, disguised as a League of Nations.

But everybody knows who it is that is really speaking.

Everybody knows that the members of Mr. Wilson's Cabinet have no voices of their own—that they are simply phonographs to repeat their master's voice.

It is Mr. Wilson, and Mr. Wilson alone, who is responsible for this amazing, this deplorable, this humiliating change of front toward the vital question of naval preparedness—the most vital of public questions, upon the right decision of which depends the safety of the American people, the future of the Republic as an independent, sovereign power among the nations of the earth.

And what is it that Mr. Wilson now proposes we shall do? He proposes that we shall accept the covenant of the League of Nations, drafted by Great Britain, and thereafter rely upon Great Britain's mighty navy for our protection. It is intended that our own navy shall be too weak to carry war across the seas to any powerful enemy or defend our land against any powerful enemy carrying war to our shores.

Secretary Daniels was bravely asserting only a few weeks ago that the American navy should henceforth be second to none in the world—and all America applauded the utterance.

And today the amazed nation hears the shameful proclamation that the American navy shall henceforth be second not only to that of Great Britain, but in no long time second even to that of Japan.

The thing would be incredible if, unhappily, we had not come to know Mr. Wilson's genius for yielding America's rights, and his inveterate habit of changing his policies.

There is nothing surprising in a change of front by Mr. Wilson upon any question, domestic or foreign. We should be surprised if there was any question upon which Mr. Wilson did not change front.

Mr. Wilson was elected upon a platform pledging him to maintain free tolls for American ships going through the Panama Canal. His sent was hardly taken when he procured the repeal of the free tolls legislation.

He was elected upon a platform pledge of one Presidential term, and when honest Democratic members of Congress took him at his campaign word and offered a resolution in Congress to establish the one-term principle he ordered them to withdraw it.

He actively opposed the woman suffrage amendment until its passage became obvious and inevitable, and then actively supported it.

He actively opposed military preparedness and called it an academic theory that did not interest practical men, and then all at once took the stump to rebuke the men who opposed preparedness.

He affirmed that it was nobody's business what Mexicans did in their revolutionary efforts, and issued notice to Americans resident in Mexico that they must either leave the country or remain at their own peril, as the American Government would not undertake to protect their rights or their lives.

And he sent American troops to Russia to wage war upon Russian revolutionaries who are NOT robbing and killing Americans resident in Russia—or doing anything else to injure us.

He told the Belgian Commission after the war started that the violation of Belgium gave the United States no reason to protest or to go to war. He told the world that the sinking of the Lusitania was not an act to go to war over, and settled the affair with a series of notes. He publicly declared that nobody knew who caused the war, or what its objects were.

He issued a solemn warning to the Germans and Allies that a peace, dictated by victors, would be disastrous to all, and could only breed fresh sores and new wars.

And he has reversed himself upon every one of these points.

And now, after advocating the absolute necessity of future naval preparedness, he sends his Secretary of the Navy home from Paris to urge the Congress to abandon naval preparedness.

In the whole one hundred and thirty years since George Washington took his seat, the nation has never seen such a weather-cock Administration, blown this way and that way by every wind of policy, politics and unstable purpose.

We affirm again that Mr. Wilson has been on both sides of EVERY great public question—every single one without exception—and there stands the record to prove that we speak the truth. And now we have the worst change of all announced by the voice of Daniels.

As far as Mr. Daniels himself is concerned, we believe that in his heart he is ashamed of his latest role. He has been a useful Secretary of the Navy. We shall now waste no blame upon him because he is only echoing his master's voice.

The man who is responsible for this movement to reduce our navy to a third rate position in the world is Mr. Wilson himself. And Mr. Wilson is the recognized leader of the Democratic party organization.

The abandoning of the construction of a great navy is worse than stupid.

It amounts to a tragedy.

Whoever would lessen the power of the American Navy to defend the people of the United States not only lessens the power and prestige of the nation, but also helps to make it certain that when we are attacked we must spill the blood of thousands that need not have been spilled and spend billions of money that need not have been spent had common sense been exercised in the present time.

The reason given by the voice of Mr. Daniels is that the League of Nations will make it unnecessary for the United States to be prepared to defend its commerce, its shores and its people from foreign attack.

The blessed League of Nations is to change human nature, make all governments gentle and just, remove all human greed, put an end to all intrigue and ambition, and usher in the millennium at once.

The Ethiop is to change his skin, the leopard his spots and the lamb is to lie down with the lion and tweak his tail at his pleasure.

Could it ever have been dreamed that such silly nonsense would actually be uttered by an American Administration with a sober face?

It is almost incredible that any man with a vestige of common sense could bring himself to believe that the heavens are thus to be opened and the New Jerusalem thus to descend upon the earth by the flat of four or five men, who have just provided the world with an illuminating illustration of the power of their united wisdom to produce permanent peace and justice in the world by spending almost seven months in wrangling over the spoils procured by war.

We should abandon our naval preparedness because the world is now going to be in a state of permanent peace.

Permanent peace.

And the tramp of millions of armed men to be heard at this very minute from the Arctic Sea to the Adriatic, from the Pacific shores of Asia to the coast of the Mediterranean.

Permanent peace.

With India in revolt, with the Mohammedan world astir from Egypt to Afghanistan, with the Boers demanding in five colonies the restoration of independence to the South African republics, with Poles and Ukrainians fighting to the death, with Finnish and Japanese and Cossack armies moving upon the ancient capital of the Czars, and the Russian hosts mustering to drive them back; with Jugo-Slavs and Italians facing each other in arms, with Russian and Bohemian armies invading Hungary, with Greek and Italian forces invading Turkey in Asia, with Poles murdering their Jewish brethren, with two million French, British and American soldiers prepared to advance against Germany, with Korea and China in revolt against the brutal aggression and tyranny of the Japanese autocracy, with Ireland waiting only the signal to strike for its freedom.

Permanent peace.

With more than half of Europe's population actually at war, and all the rest in danger of revolution and fresh bloodshed.

Permanent peace at once.

Was there ever a crazier dream than this preposterous proposition in the face of the terrible actualities?

We say to Mr. Daniels and to Mr. Wilson that it will be time enough for this America of ours to abandon its preparedness by land or by sea when the League of Nations HAS ACCOMPLISHED PEACE.

We want something more substantial than a rainbow.

We want a certainty—not a promise, not a hope—before we consent to abandon our power to defend our country.

Let the League of Nations prove that it can work the miracles promised.

It will be time enough then to shut up our navy yards, to abandon our ships of battle, to put ourselves upon the mercy of other peoples—white, black, yellow, ring-streaked or striped.

Why, what a fool a man would be who would throw away his weapons and put himself at the mercy of a gang of bandits who had notoriously practiced robbery and murder for years and years.

And would our nation be any less of a fool to throw away its naval weapons and put itself at the mercy of governments which have practiced robbery and slaughter and treachery for a thousand years?

Are we to depend upon the greater naval power of Great Britain, which has extended its dominion over more than a third of the globe by three hundred years of war and conquest?

Are we to repose in imaginary security against a hostile combination of Japan and any faithless European power, or of any one of EIGHT POSSIBLE ALLIANCES, two of which are publicly advocated by responsible ministers of existing governments?

Why, Americans, if we are guilty of this amazing folly, of this stupid, criminal, blundering shortsightedness, we shall not deserve any sympathy when the hour of disaster and shame strikes.

As a nation sows, so shall it reap. And if we sow weakness and riches together, we shall surely reap war upon our weakness and robbery of our riches.

It would be just as sensible for Mr. Rockefeller to pile a million in gold pieces on his lawn and forbid his watchman to carry weapons, upon the ground that the Paris conference had issued a decree that robbers should not steal any more.

The utter folly of this proposition to abandon our naval construction is equalled only by the supreme silliness of the reason for doing so which Mr. Wilson advances pat the mouth of Mr. Daniels.

The atmosphere of European diplomacy has not tended to strengthen Mr. Wilson's judgment, his vision or his Americanism. And his devotion to this academic and impractical League of Nations scheme has evidently become an obsession, blinding him to facts, obscuring his insight and making him as incapable of appraising the existing situation as he was of realizing in 1914, 1915 and 1916 that adequate preparation for war was then necessary.

The country has looked on with increasing surprise and loss of confidence and real uneasiness while Mr. Wilson has steadily yielded to pressure and abandoned one point after another and ONE PLEDGE AFTER ANOTHER, but so far we have all kept silence, hoping that there might be a better ending than appeared probable and willing to give Mr. Wilson every chance to redeem his fast-fading prestige.

But when things go from bad to this dangerous worse; when Mr. Wilson is ready to surrender not only our independent sovereignty to a foreign council, but actually proposes to deprive the American people of the power to defend themselves against future aggression and invasion—then silence becomes cowardice, and whoever holds his tongue in the presence of such a monstrous proposition is false to his citizenship, false to our country, false to our history, false to the memory of our dead, false to all our glorious traditions of independence and false to the very name of American.

Ye TOWN GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

SHE WAS tall.
AND ANGULAR.
AND WALKING.
AND WARM.
AND HAD a basket.
AND IT sagged.
AND DREW her down.
ON THE right-hand side
AND WE stopped the car.
AND I said to her,
"WOULD YOU like to ride?"
AND SHE smiled.
AND SAID to me,
"I'LL SAY I would."
AND JUST for a moment
I HALF believed.
SHE WAS a soldier.
DONE UP in a dress.
BUT, OF course, she wasn't.
AND SHE climbed in.
AND SAT herself down.
AND I said to her,
"IT'S CERTAINLY warm."
AND SHE said to me,
"I'LL SAY it is."
AND FOR half a mile
NOT A word was said.
AND ALL the time,
I HAD a desire.
TO LOOK at her closely.
BUT I couldn't do that.
WITHOUT BEING rude.
AND ONE can't be rude
TO A perfect stranger.
BUT SHE was my guest,
AND SO I said:
"YOU'RE NOT so warm!"
AND SHE answered me,
"I'LL SAY I'm not.
AND WE rode along
FOR ALL of a mile
AND CAME to a hill
WHERE THE breeze blew cool.
AND SHE said to me,
"IT'S CERTAINLY fine.
"TO RIDE in a car.
"ON A day like this."
AND I glanced at her.
AND SAID right out,
"I'LL SAY it is."
AND SHE glanced right back.
IN A startled way.
AND WE both of us smiled,
AND THEN she laughed.
AND TOLD of her boy.
WHO HAD just come home.
WITH HIS army talk.
AND OF how his dad.
AND HIS sister-in-law.
AND THE two other boys,
AND EVEN the baby.
OF THE sister-in-law.
ALL TALKED that way.
AND WE reached her farm.
AND STOPPED the car.
AND SHE got out.
AND HER boy came down.
AND TOOK the basket.
AND STARTED back.
AND I said to her,
AS SHE said good-by,
"HE'S A fine-looking boy."
AND SHE looked at me.
WITH A smile in her eyes.
AND SAID right out,
"I'LL SAY he is."

I THANK you.

WATCH YOUR GARBAGE

The latest crime wave is an epidemic of thieving from garbage cans in Westfield. Householders are not the losers. They don't care for the garbage. But Garbage Collector Coffey complains vigorously. The police blame pigkeepers, who seek free sustenance for their porkers, instead of buying grain at prevailing high prices.

Once-Overs

DO ONE THING OR THE OTHER.

For a number of years you have had in mind a plan which, with but little capital, would bring you larger remuneration.

You have hesitated to make the experiment for fear you might not make good.

You would be indignant if any one accused you of being influenced by fear rather than reason, but what about the course you are following?

You know you will never be satisfied till you have tried out the thing you believe you are most fitted for.

You can never do your best work even in the position you now fill when you are half the time looking with longing eyes at the men who have made good in the manner of work you want to pursue.

There is only one way you can ever settle down, and that is to make a try-out, and the sooner the better.

Any idea in your life which makes for unrest and confusion of purpose makes you less useful wherever you may be.

Settle the thing once for all.

Let go where you are and grasp the opportunity if it comes to you.

You can't fill a glass with milk which is already full of water without emptying the glass first. Milk and water never is worth much.
